RELIEF FOR FARMERS IN CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

(By T. F. Peck, Commissioner of Agriculture.)

That farmers as a rule are not making the money from their farm operations that they should make is apparent, and the reasons why they are not doing so can be shown. The fault is not altogether their own as individual farmers, because some of the obstacles can not be removed by the individual farmer working alone. Unaided he can not solve the marketing problem, which is the greatest handicap that confronts the farmer today.

It is not because the consumer of farm products is not paying a good price for them. If the farmers with their present volume of production could get 65 per cent. of the price paid by the consumer, they would be making money. Instead, as was recently the case, a farmer received 55 cents per bushel for his Irish potatoes. The same potatoes, less than 100 miles away, cost the consumer $2.35 per bushel. Fruits, vegetables and livestock show a wide margin of increase in price between producer and consumer.

We do not have to investigate long to locate a big part of the trouble. Our problem is to correct it and we can not do this as individual farmers working alone, but it has been solved in communities by co-operative effort. As individual farmers we have not prepared our product properly for market. We have sold in small lots on a glutted market and were forced to take what the dealer or speculator felt disposed to pay. We know that we can not afford to continue our present market methods with any hope for better prices. Our relief lies in community co-operative selling of our products.

In undertaking it we need not grope in the dark as the pioneers did. In co-operative marketing we have the benefit of their experience to guide us. We do not need to criticize the speculator in farm products. He is looking for an opportunity to make money. He recognized it in our failure to properly grade our products and our inability to hold them until the demand justified their sale. Community co-operative marketing of our products is not infringing on anyone's rights or invading the field of another industry, but is simply completing our own work. We, as farmers, are manufacturers just as much as the manufacturers of shoes, clothing, wagons, or any other manufactured article. All manufacturers regard the distribution and sale of their products as important as its manufacture and they give it as careful consideration.

The marketing problem can not be solved without community co-operative effort, and its efficiency is emphasized by the cohesive action on the part of the communities.

Let a want 'd sell it for you.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

In the County Court of Tipton County, Tennessee, at its November, 1922, term--George Dye, Admr., vs. Virginia Smith et al.

In this cause, it appearing to the Court from the bill of complainant, which is sworn to, that the defendants, the unknown heirs-at-law of Lucinda Smith, whose names and residences are unknown and can not be ascertained upon diligent inquiry, it is ordered by the Court that the said unknown heirs-at-law of Lucinda Smith appear before the Judge of the County Court of Tipton County, Tennessee, at his office in the courthouse in the town of Covington, Tennessee, on before the first Monday in January, 1923, the same being the first day of said month and the first day of the January, 1923, term of said court, and make defense to the bill for sale of lands to pay debts of decedent, G. R. Smith, or the same will be taken for confessed and the cause set for hearing ex parte as to them.

It is further ordered by the court that a copy of this order be published for four consecutive weeks in the Covington Leader, a newspaper published in said county.

This November 29, 1922.
